Thinking Out Loud

By H. M. L.

We hope Uncle Sam will be able to win this war without striking foul blows. Too frequently we note that on the strength of rumors concerning sadistic treatment of captured soldiers in Japan or Germany, letters from the people to the newspapers and even some commentators on the radio or in newspaper columns, a vengeful spirit is manifest. The cry is,

"Do unto the enemy as the enemy does unto us!"

From a practical standpoint it wouldn't work. The Axis holds human life too cheaply. It means nothing to Hitler and the military oligarchy of Japan that their conquests are costing thousands, hundreds of thousands of young lives. In Russia the cold and typhus fever are adding to the holocaust. Human life at the disposal of dictators is the cheapest war commodity. What we might do in the way of reprisal would not affect the result one iota. The killing or torture of a few Japs or Huns in reprisal for enemy moral and legal outlawry would have no effect on treatment of United Nations citizens or prisoners in the hands of the Axis, except to excite to other reprisals.

If we do resort to such measures, we immediately descend to the same bestial level as our antagonists. We surrender all Christian concepts to become as one with yellow and white "Aryans." No free man can wish to preserve a democracy that resorts to such expedients as shooting a hundred innocent men for the act of one unidentified person. From a practical standpoint, if we resorted to such measures, what is there left to preserve, to defend, to battle for.

In some of the metropolitan papers we note letters from readers fiercely demanding some thousands of aliens be immediately arrested and transported to concentration camps. The Japanese fifth column in the Hawaiian islands, and the Hun fifth column in France are cited as a reason. We quite agree that all aliens of any nationality under the slightest suspicion whatever should be immediately removed to places where they can not obstruct or sabotage our war effort. In this case it would probably be impossible to sort all the goats from the sheep. But after the segregation that could be done at leisure. And we understand that is precisely what is being done now by the FBI and the military authorities. The sheriffs and the peace officers of every county in California are also taking a hand in the segregation and sequestration of aliens who are, or may be, active fifth columnists or saboteurs. Let us leave this phase of the war to the authorities whose duty it is to guard against the enemy within our gates. If any of us sees or hears anything that indicates that any alien or citizen is engaged in obstructing our war effort, we should immediately make a report to the sheriff. But let us cease crying for a futile and degrading vengeance.

However, we do hope that the time will come, when we can hold sadistic generals and Gestapo men to a strict accounting for their acts, in case some of the rumors we hear, prove to be facts. We sincerely believe that all proved crimes in this war should be expiated by the criminals by judgment of a military court when the war is done. Murder done in time of war is still murder. A Filipino scout, according to news dispatches was found dead in a gully, recaptured by General McArthur's forces on the Bataan peninsula. He was found with his arms bound and thus he had been bayoneted. If this incident is proved a fact when peace comes, we think the officers responsible for their soldiers in this segment of the battlefield, should be tried, and if convicted, hung. This is not reprisal. This is justice. We have a right to demand justice.

Spur Track Contract Is Awarded

INDICATIONS FURTHER POINT TO ARMY CAMP CONSTRUCTION

Awarding of a contract for a spur track to run to the Nevada-Yuba cantonment site, with construction scheduled to start today, and with the return of W. C. Cupples, the government's land agent to Marysville were evidences Saturday of the authenticity of reports that work of constructing the $25,000,000 army camp is to start immediately.

The railroad, embracing eight miles of track, including the loading and unloading yards at the site, will run from the Morrison road in Yuba County crossing on the Southern Pacific main line two and one half miles north of Wheatland, with connecting links for both north and south traffic.

J. A. Casson, who has been executing a contract for enlargement of the Alicia airport, federally built, is the railroad contractor. He said Saturday that he expects to put equipment at work today. O. A. Erickson will superintend the job, which will require construction of several bridges across creeks and the grading of the raodbed, laying of tracks and ballasting.

As was expected, the railroad is being started ahead of construction of the army camp, in order to put it into use to haul in the construction materials, the principal item being some 60,000,000 feet of lumber being purchased in the northwest. Approximately 2400 railroad cars will be required to transport the materials.

Cupples, who made the appraisals of the lands in the cantonment area, comprising at the outset nearly 100,000 acres, later being reduced to about 70,0000 by elimination of acreage found not necessary, has his headquarters in the basement of the Marysville city hall. It is anticipated that his return means he will proceed with the acquisition of the land required. He did not, however, make a statement to that effect.

"Special details will be released at the proper time in order that an orderly program can be affected, saving interested parties from resultant annoyance of idle rumors."

War time restrictions have sealed the lips of the officers and agents in charge of the contanment project and no official information is being given out, but it is known that stacks of plans and specifications done up in packages of complete sets can be intended only for use of contractors in offering bids on the construction contracts and that these bids are to be opened in the near fture.

Construction of the cantonment buildings, 1408 of them at the time the original plans were completed, is expected to start in March. Before that time, it is expected, a contract for a highway to the site will have been awarded and work will have started.—Marysville Appeal-Democrat.

Economy Keynote Of Council Meeting; Slash In Police Force Asked

COUNCILMAN JOHN R. IVEY'S PROPOSAL POSTPONED UNTIL NEXT MEETING WHEN ALL TRUSTEES WILL BE PRESENT

Economy in the operation of the city's business was the keynote of the council meeting here Thursday night.

Councilman John R. Ivey insisted upon a reduction in the police and street maintenance forces. Definite action was put over until the meeting next month when a full attendance of councilmen is expected. Councilman Frank Davies and Robert Nye were not present at the Thursday night meeting.

The council did, however, abolish the street cleaning position held by Tom White.

Ivey said because of the vast change in Nevada City's population and business since the war, he believes the police department and also the street maintenance crew can be materially reduced.

When it was learned at the council meeting that in January no traffic fines or fines of any kind had been paid into the city's coffers, Ivey wanted to know why such a large revenueless police force should be maintained. City Judge Miles Coughlin, who was present at the meeting, said he believed it was a boost for the police department, showing the policemen are successfully curbing crimes in this city. Chief of Police Max Solaro added that his men, two regular policemen and a relief man, are "on the job at all times."

Mayor Ben Hall said he has known the time when the city's financial condition was in a much worse state than it is now and took the position at least for the time being there should be no change in the operating personnel.

The mayor pointed out if there were no police on duty in the event of an emergency it would be a resfious reflection on the city. As far as the street maintenance crew goes, the mayor said, he saw no reason why a backward step should be taken to offset the good work that already has been accomplished. And that would certainly result, he said, ifthe completed projects were not maintained and kept in good condition. Mayor Hall said the city street crew has practically been skeletonized already and it would not be good business to lay off capable men and when the necessity arose pay some one else large sums of money to operate the equipment and do the work the present city crew is now accomplishing.

City Clerk George Calanan said he believed expenses of the city should be cut and a huge reserve built up for use on projects after the war is over.

The council decided not to purchase sirens for use as air raid warning signals inasmuch as the majority of cities throughout the state are finding sirens unsatisfactory. The fire department has already ordered three sirens.

Mayor Hall brought up the matter of water collections. He said the city has reduced the water rate and he believed water users should cooperate by paying their bills. Water Collector Sam Hooper's report showed

Schoolteachers To Handle Sugar Rationing

Nevada City public school teachers will be given the huge task of issuing sugar rationing books to every man, woman and child in this community and will be directed to crack down on hoarders by withholding the sweet from them until their supplies are used up.

School teachers in other communities and cities throughout the nation will handle the rationing task in their districts.

In Washington, Price Administrator Leon Henderson announced details of the rationing program, under which books containing stamps will be distributed entitling each individual to a strictly limited quantity of sugar—probably 12 ounces a week.

When the 130,000,000 copies of "War Ration Book No. 1" are distributed "within a few weeks," persons who have built up hoards of sugar will have stamps torn from their books at the time of issuance, to prohibit purchases for them until stocks in their cupboards are exhausted.

Only one person in each family will have to apply for the stamps books. He will be required to sign an application stating the amount of sugar in his household. All supplies over two pounds per person will be considered hoarded sugar, Henderson said.

As a discouragement to dishonest reporting of family sugar supplies, the application will carry on its face the warning that false reports to the government are punishable under the federal criminal code with penalties up to $10,000 fine or 10 years imprisonment.

Public school teachers, under supervision of local rationing boards, will personally supervise the registration of consumers, the issurance of books and the removal of stamps from the books of persons having excess supply.

The rationing of sugar is absolutely necessary as a war measure, Henderson said. He stated "we can count now on only about 5,300,000 tons of sugar this year as against 7,989,000 tons in 1941."

Three major reasons for the decline in supply are:

1—Sugar cane is required to make molasses from which alcohol can be derived for manufacture of smokeless powder.

2—Imports from the Philippines have been cut off and those from Hawaii will probably be curtailed.

3—The Allies have lost some of their supply sources and will draw in part on some of the U. S. sources this year.

The local rationing board has not been announced yet but there is some talk the tire rationing board will also serve as the sugar rationing board. The rationing board will simply turn over most of the duties to the local schoolteachers, according to Henderson's plan.

John Morsehead Died Yesterday In Sacramento

John E. Morsehead, 60, who died in Sacramento yesterday, had relatives in this district.

The funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow from the George L. Klumpp parlors in Sacramento under the auspices of the Sacramento Eagles Interment will be in East Lawn Cemetery.

LARGE PINE TREE FALLS INTO CAREY'S FRONT YARD

A strong wind toppled over a large pine tree in Red Men's Park on Grove Street last Thursday night. The tree fell into the yard of Andrew and George Carey and crushed a section of the fence.

HOLIDAY THURSDAY

The Bank, city and county offices will close Thursday, Lincoln's Birthday. General business firms and the stores will remain open.

OFF TO SAN DIEGO

Tom Legg, who enlisted in the ground forces of the U. S. Naval aviation corps two weeks ago, and who has been home for nearly all this time waiting his call, will leave tomorrow for his training station in San Diego. At the time of his enlistment conditions at the training base were congested and his departure was accordingly postponed a few days.

Secretaries Of C's. Of C. Organized

H. F. SOFGE OF THIS CITY ONE OF MEMBERS OF NEW GROUP

The Sacramento Region Chamber of Commerce Managers Association was formed at a meeting in Sacramento Friday. It is an organization of secretaries of chambers from northern California counties, banded together to aid each other in every way possible and to promote interest in the region they represent.

H. F. Sofge, local chamber secretary, was present at the meeting, as well as Lambert Thomas, active local chamber member.

William M. Ripley of Placerville was named president; Keith Kenyon of Yuba City, vice president and Steve Paxton of Sacramento, secretary.

Besides the above officers, members of the association are William Randall of Colusa, J. M. Lee of North Sacramento, A. R. Amerman of Isleton, W. G. Stone of Sacramento, Mrs. A. McDonald of Davis, Mrs. G. Montz of Williams, E. A. Kirk of Redding, Lambert H. Grady of Vallejo, Juanita McCurry of Wheatland, Jack Kaufman of Marysville and H. F. Sofge, of Nevada City.

Meetings are to be held in the chamber of commerce building in Sacramento. At last Friday's meeting, Secretary Dudley of the Sacramento booster organization provided sandwiches, salad, coffee and pie for the visiting chamber secretaries. The next meetnig will be held on Friday morning, March 6th.

The speaker at last Friday's meeting was Roy Donnally of the Federal Employment Bureau.

Sofge said his address was very vital to the farmer and fruit grower, as he stated this year there would be no migrant workers to pick the fruit.

"Each district would have a pool wherefrom the laborers can be sent out to pick fruit or other work," Donnally said.

He made one statement that concerned a problem of vital interest to this area this summer. He stated that if his office should get a call for 200 men to fight fires in the forest, he would send out agents to bring in the requisite number and that by the time they arrived he would have sufficient transportation to convey the men to the scene of the fire.

MARVIN HARRIS DROPS DEAD

Marvin Harris, Grass Valley miner, droped dead last night just outside the city limit of Grass Valley on the Colfax Highway.

Harris, accompanied by his wife, was walking home. He suddenly toppled over. He died instantly. Coroner A. M. Holmes is investigating.

The body is at the Holmes Funeral Home in Grass Valley, where rites will be arranged.

Caught in the Riffles

We were surprised at the reception accorded "Caught in The Riffles." The column really "caught on" with our readers and continuation of the "inside" dope on local happenings was urged.

A few pointed out, however, that we may publish something sometime which may force us to defend our bodily person in a "duel of honor."

We hope that time never comes but if it does let the chips fall where they may. We might remind everyone, tho, that the writer of this column has had some pugilistic experience and at one time was considered the most powerful member of a certain YMCA.

Mrs. Helen Richards had an amusing experience the other night. Mrs. Richards lives in the former Janiss Auto Court on the Murchie Road. She came into Nevada City and visited four hours with a friend. When she went out to her car to return home she found one of her chickens perched on the bumper.

Mrs. Richards wonders how that chicken was able to keep its perch on all the turns of the Murchie Road. The trip home was made in style, the chicken riding in the car on the front seat with Mrs. Richards.

Attention air raid wardens. Everyone of you is under the suspicion of Carl T Larsen, fire chief and deputy sheriff. Which of you is responsible for the disappearance of Larsen's good hat at the recent air raid warden meeting in the city hall? When it came time to leave the meeting Larsen found some one had copped his hat and left an old battered head piece in its place. Investigations are continuing but Larsen promises he will not prosecute if the hat is returned within a reasonable time.

Frank Steel, county treasurer, declares that he has never told anyone that he would not be candidate for re-election this fall. He would not say that he intended to be a candidate, but declared he would decide that matter himself, indicating that he did not care to have others decide it for him.

Steel has been county treasurer since August 1, 1926, when he was appointed to succeed William Garland, who resigned. Then Steel was elected in November, 1926, for a four year term and has been reelected ever since.

We are reminded that in Thursday's column we overlooked the fact that the terms of City Clerk George Calanan and City Treasurer Emma Foley expire along with the terms of Mayor Ben Hall and Councilman Robert Nye soon. Latest gossip tells us Nye will not be a candidate to succeed himself. Nye has spent most of his time in the bay area since selling his home on Broad Street.

Found in the sluice box: Game Warden Earl Hiscox is thinking seriously about joining the armed forces o the United States. Hiscox was a machine gunner in the World War I. Long John Tognarelli, after lo! these many years of loafing, hunting and fishing, is going back into business. He is establishing a retail liquor business in the place formerly occupied by the Universal Dollar Store. The local volunteer fire department has authorized the purchase of $4,500 in defense bonds. Where is the money coming from? It is part of the amount obtained from the sale of the Armory Building to the Purity Stores, Inc. . . At last Nevada County's newspaper group may be represented in the armed forces. Freddie Garrison is to soon undergo an examination for possible entry into the naval reserve. If he passes and is called into service he will be the first of his profession in this county to answer the call. All the other newspapermen are either too old or have too many kids.

THIS SCRAP ON OUR HANDS

Five hundred pounds of scrap rubber are needed for every medium tank. A battleship may contain as much as 9,000 tons of scrap metal. Ten thousand tons of waste paper will be needed this year to make ammunition containers alone. Three miles of copper wire go into a modern bomber.

Facts like these make it clear why we Americans must begin to save materials as we never have before. Government officials say that salvage operations will play an important part in winning the war. Our industries are expanding at such a rate that they will need vast quantities of scrap to keep them going full blast, making weapons, and it's up to us to see that they get it.

Salvage campaigns are being organized throughout the country to gather material of this kind. Every one of us can help in these collection drives. Every one of us has scrap of some sort that he can contribute. If you've been saving things just in case they might come in handy, they might come in handy now for Uncle Sam. And if you haven't been saving, now is the time to start.

ONE AMERICA

"We face a period of consumer rationing of every article which requires an appreciable quantity of strategic raw materials.

"We've barely begun to sacrifice, and while it may find us soft at first, we've come from strong forebears. and there is no fear in my mind that Americans can't take it."

That's straight talking. and it comes from William P. Witherow. President of the National Association of Manufacturers, a man in a position to know what he's talking about. In a recent speech he warned us Americans of the trials ahead. and he called for unlimited cooperation "in deed, in fact, and in every action" to meet the test.

"Half-baked sophistries must be out for the duration. This war is no pink tea or social bazaar.

"Speed of production is the essence of victory. The rules of the game can not be changed if we are not to encourage defeat.

"For us there is just one America, and as one people we must protect that land of free men against the encroachment of enemies to freedom—armed or otherwise—so that these United States and all they symbolize may endure for us and our posterity."

AMERICAN ANNIVERSARY

What are we Americans fighting for? We read a lot these days about our way of life and the necessity of preserving it. But what is our way of life? What does it mean in terms of those little every day liberties that we all know, and sometimes all forget? Here in America freedom is as familiar to us as the homes we knew as children, and, like safe and trusting children, we often take it for granted, not thinking what it means.

Without showing a tank or a bomber, a map or a battle, a new movie that has just been released brings home the meaning of this freedom that Americans are sweating, fighting and dying to preseve. Called "American Anniversary," it traces 20 years in the life of an immigrant who, like so many millions before him, came to America and was able to work himself up to a position of dignity and respect in his town.

The picture, which was made by the National Association of Manufacturers, dramatises the simple rights and opportunities that our system of democratic government and free enterprise make possible—rights and opportunities that have made America a legend of hope for oppressed people everywhere, rights and opportunities that we must make up our minds to preserve, no matter what the cost.

BLOSSOM TIME COMING FEB. 13 TO SACRAMENTO

"Blossom Time," whose appeal is as infinite as that of the immortal Franz Schubert music contained in the operetta's score, comes to the Sacramento Memorial Auditorium February 13th, and to the Sacramento High School Auditorium February 14th, for a matinee and evening performance, with Everett Marshall starring in the Shubert's latest production of this old favorite. With the Metropolitan Opera Company for several seasons, the young baritone brings a rich voice and engaging manner to the role of the bespectacled, retiring and lovable Schubert. Marthe Errolle, the dark haired contralto and the daughter of the famous opera star Ralph Errolle, is supurb as the fiery Bellabruna. Pretty, blonde Patricia Wing, talented soprano making her debut in "Blossom Time", is a charming Mitzi, who in the play by Dorothy Donnelly, is the inspiration for the beautiful love songs adapted in the score by Sigmund Romberg. Frank Hornaday is the handsome aristocrat, Baron Schober. The burden of the comic relief, so essential to the carefree spirit of the operetta, falls lightly onto the combined shoulders of Douglas Leavitt, Zella Russell and Harry K. Morton.

Rated as the finest singing company ever to have played "Blossom Time," the cast of this Twentieth Anniversary presentation includes: Lyndon Crews, Driskill Wolfe, Betti Davis, Joseph Toner, Truman Gaige, Agnes Cassidy, Bette Oliver, Irwin Burke, Elliott Robertson, Barbara Cation, Sylvia Mettler, Virginia McKay and Beth Dean. The orchestra is under the direction of Irving Actman.

Tickets may be purchased at the Ware-Hazelton boxoffice in Weinstock-Lubin's with mail orders receiving prompt attention.

NEVADA CITY GOES ON WAR TIME SCHEDULE

Nevada City and the rest of the nation put its clocks on war duty at 2 a. m. today, moving them one hour ahead of standard time to save electricity for war factories and give more daylight for outdoor tasks.

The advancing of the clock one hour created quite a shakeup in the living routine of Nevada City families. The younger folk especially objected to getting up in the "middle of the night." The first day of the new time came when this city was experiencing its coldest day of the year. That made it much harder to get out of bed one hour ahead of usual time.

Nevada County mines are maintaining their usual schedule, the day shift going to work at 7 o'clock War Time. There had been some in favor of going to work at 8 o'clock War Time. Stores here are opening at the usual hour and will close at 6 o'clock War Time.

JUST WONDERIN'

I wonder at the wisdom of old books—
Sometimes we take them from their dusty nooks
And con once more the truths we used to read
But were too dull and obdurate to heed.

I wonder at the clearness of vision which enabled certain writers and thinkers of former decades to discern the dangers of the road ahead and warn of impending calamity.

V. S. McClatchy and many other editorial writers, Peter B. Kyne and other writers of fiction, warned California of the yellow aryan peril, but California went her unheeding way and the Japanese filtered in, occupied the land and settled down to stay.

Several years ago, we were greatly interested in the books published by Mr. Kyne; what Californian was not. How-ever, in the minds of the lumber fraternity there existed an added thrill. Cappy Ricks of the Cappy Ricks stories was a well known San Francisco lumberman, Augustus Reddell was the genial Gus Russell, Frank Mulgrew, Mr. Kyne's very dear friend, was a familiar figure in the bay area, so we, like many others, bought and read the books written by Peter Kyne as fast as they came from the press.

We read these books because they were, in addition to being well written, concerned with places and characters with which we were familiar. We scanned the serious thoughts which they contained and the warnings with momentary meelings of apprehension, but our legislators would act if danger really threatened, so—on with the story! Who married who, and how did they live ever after. The Californians of twenty or thirty years ago did not regard the Japs as threats to our safety and security; Why, they were needed to do the menial tasks with which no white man wished to soil his hands.

We are reading the Pride of Palomar at this time, and at the same time blushing hotly when we realize that we were among those wo regarded Mr. Kyne and other clear thinking prophets of that time as, alarmists, unduly exercised over something which if really menacing, would be promptly attended to by state authorities.

There were other books written with the same ends in view, but we happen to be reading the Pride of Palomar and wondering what would have been the present status of the Japs in California, if the information contained in this book had been digested and used for the protection of a great state from an unclean menace.

I wonder if those who hoard sugar, canned goods and other materials essential to national defense, will betray themselves by facial expression and manner. Will they look crafty furtive and guilty. Will they appear ill at ease, embarrassed, or a bit too cock sure and nonchalant. Will they blush when they hear the slogan, Sugar or shot. I wonder.

I wonder if the author who once referred to pink teas and social gatherings as places where people met to "giggle, gabble, and get," would designate the U. S. senate as an arena in which duly elected legislators quibble, quabble, squabble and fret. Oh well, our representatives have many weighty matters to wrestle with in these days of total war; they wouldn't be human—they wouldn't even be republicans and democrats if they didn't argue.—A. Merriam Conner.

RESERVATIONS NECESSARY

Skiers who had no reservations at various lodges and resorts on Highway 40 yesterday found they could not park their cars to ski. The army issued orders to the California Highway Patrol to keep the highway clear in the event of an emergency and those who had no reservations at the snow sports resorts were forced to "keep moving". With the end of the storm it is hoped to enlarge parking facilities and the restrictions will be lifted.

Carson City, Nevada.

The population of Nevada might easily be a race of hermits. There is a generous square mile of territory here for each and every resident of the state.

With 110,680 square miles of country for 110,247 Nevadans to live in, these people might never see each other if they were scattered evenly over the state. But they're not. In fact fully a third of Nevada is still unsurveyed—70,000,000 acres practically uninhabited and unexplored.

With so much land to take care of and so few people to pay for the job, you'd think the finances of Nevada would be on the rocks. Add to that the fact that there are no state income, corporate, inheritance or sales taxes and you're sure of it. But you are wrong. Nevada's treasury is in the pink instead of the red and hasn't even a penny of bonded indebtedness. Which is more than the treasuries of many tax-ridden states can boast.

It has taken folks a long time to wake up to the fact that, from the standpoint of taxation, this is the ideal place for rich and poor alike to call home. Only a sixth of Nevada is now privately owned—and half of that belongs to railroads. But that condition may soon change. As we wander through the state we see evidence of increasing population. People are hearing about taxless Nevada and are coming here to stay.

Nevada's small population is partly due to her coming of age very suddenly, instead of going through the usual long period of development. She sprang into sudden world prominence when silver and gold began to pour from the mines a few miles north of this capital. That metal and the outbreak of the Civil War got Nevada into the Union in spite of her small population. Then, in 1864, 127,381 people were required for each representative in Congress. Nevada had but 40,000. The North wanted the wealth of the Comstock Lode to bolster credit and it has been said that the silver of western Nevada won the Civil War.

Although loyalties in Nevada fluctuated between the North and South during the struggle, residents managed to raise for President Lincoln the largest amount of money per capita of any state or territory. By the end of the Civil War a half billion dollars in gold and silver had come out of the Comstock Lode. A like amount has been dug out since. Acquiring Nevada from Mexico in 1848 proved to be one of the most fortunate purchases ever made by the U. S. A.

Though mining doesn't pay now what it did during Nevada's "Age of Silver" it continues to be the chief activity of this region. Nature made up for giving Nevada a barren soil by planting fortunes in minerals beneath its alkaline surface. Mines alone brought the first rush of settlers here and are responsible for most every development in the State.

But something besides those mines is now attracting folks to Nevada. Few and lenient tax levies sound good to the little fellow retired from the job on a small pension and to the big fellow who should retire on his millions. Men actively engaged in business in other states can establish residence here in forty two minutes —one minute a day for six weeks—and then come under the tax laws of Nevada. All types are heading this way for permanent residence, so maybe some of these wide open spaces will begin to fill up.

DUKE FORESTRY SCHOOL ASKS FOR CONES FROM GROVE OF BIG TREES

Placer County "Big Tree Grove" furnishes Duke University Forestry School at Durham, North Carolina with seed and cones for experimental use.

At the request of Dean Korstian of the Duke Forestry School, a shipment of "Big Tree" cones and seed from the Placer County grove was placed in the mail today by Ranger Beardsley of the Forest Hill District, Tahoe National Forest.

The seed bearing cones were collected last fall by Ranger Beardsley after a severe wind storm which brought down the fresh cones which would have otherwise shed the seed on the ground only to be lost.

For some unknown reason the Big Trees of the Placer County grove will not reproduce from their own seed and it is hoped that through experiments carried out this next season at both Duke University and the Forest Hill Ranger Station this question will be answered.

The Placer Grove consists of six trees, the largest of which is about 12 feet in diameter. Two additional trees have fallen and are in a perfect state of preservation. No natural reproduction occurs in the area but 6 small Big Trees seedlings have been transplanted there.

This distinguishing feature of the Placer County Grove is that it is the most northerly extension of this species which should not be confused with the redwood tree of the coastal areas of California and southern Oregon.

HAM-EGGERS TO HAVE ANOTHER PHONY ON BALLOT

By JOHN W. DUNLAP

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Maybe the ham and eggs pension plan has been overshadowed by the war but it will come to life with a bang whenever voters start thinking about the general election this November.

Forgotten by many is the fact that the Payroll Guarantee plan—new name for the streamlined version of the same old pension scheme—was qualified for the ballot in August, 1940.

Already defeated twice by the voters, the plan will be revived to bring national attention back on California. The ridicule and guffaws from coast to coast during the first two campaigns was something terrific. Although the avalanche of "no" votes helped to stem the outside comment.

The situation is changed in 1942, however. The ham and eggers have enlisted the all-out support of organized labor, no less. The deal is in repayment for support of the pensioners in qualifying the anti-hot cargo act for referendum this November.

That makes a double bill for November—ham and eggs and hot cargo, in addition to the various governmental contests, not the least of which will be the race for governor.

Governor Olson will be in a peculiar position. On the one hand, he is backed solidly by labor in return for his veto of the hot cargo act, the freeing by his administration of Tom Mooney, Warren Billings and the three Alameda county shipboard murderers, among others. Labor wants Olson and Olson wants labor, so there won't be any doubt there.

But Olson repudiated the ham and eggs plan after straddling the fence long enough in 1938 to get their votes and defeat Frank Merriam. That will obligate the pensioners to vote for the repeal of the hot cargo act and be faced with a gubernatorial candidate who has denounced their plan as unworkable.

Time heals many wounds, however, and it is not likely the ham and eggers will care to revive Olson's opposition to their plan. He can be expected to soft-pedal the whole subject too.

NOBLE McCORMACK CALLED BACK INTO MILITARY SERVICE

Noble McCormack, who several months ago was discharged from military service because he was beyond the 28 age limit, has been called back into the service along with others over 28 who were given their discharges. McCormack, who had been expecting the call momentarily since the outbreak of the war, left Nevada City Saturday.

Recently McCormack, son of Deputy County Clerk and Mrs. R. N. McCormack, resigned his position as deputy county clerk to accept a position with the Shell Oil Company. Noble was to have been the manager of the new Shell station being constructed on Main and Nevada Streets.

MIDNIGHT MINE WORKERS ADOPT SAVINGS PLAN

Lawrence J. Smith, superintendent of the Midnight Mine of Nevada City, advised the Nevada City Defense Savings Committee yesterday that the mine is establishing the voluntary payroll deduction plan for the purchase of defense bonds for its employees.

This saving plan provides that the employee voluntarily permits his employers to deduct a stated sum each payday from his salary for the purpose. The money is placed in trust by the employer until a sufficient sum has been accumulated to purchase a defense bond, at which time the employer buys the bond and delivers is to the employee.

Smith advised the committee that he will attempt to have every employee join in the program and be 100% in the plan of regular systematic savings. Though the mine employers and employees of this community are contributing a great deal or defense bonds and stamps, the Midnight Mine is the first to establish this approved savings program. The defense saving committee was overjoyed with this action and it is their hope that other working groups will follow the Midnight leadership.

The Midnight Mine is being operated by the Harold Club of Reno, Nevada and employs eight men. The operators have given their full consent to the establishment of the savings plan, Smith advised.

MAN ARRESTED FOR ALLEGEDLY BEATING WIFE

Paul Meyers, formerly employed at the Murchie and Zeibright Mines and now working at the Empire Mine in Grass Valley, is held in the county jail here on a charge of battery.

Sheriff Carl J. Tobiassen said Meyers unmercifully beat his wife, who is the mother of three children. Mrs. Meyers is reportedly in a serious condition.

Meyers is to be taken before Justice of the Peace Charles Morehouse in Grass Valley this week for sentencing.

DAN L. CALHOUN GIVEN PROBATION

Daniel L. Calhoun Saturday was granted probation by Superior Judge George L. Jones upon the recommendation of Probation Officer A. W. McGagin. Calhoun was charged with failue to provide. One of the conditions of probation was that he support his minor child. Calhoun was arrested in San Francisco and returned here to stand trial.

GEORGE DAY TRIAL OPENS

The trial of George Day, charged with failure to provide for a minor child, opened in the superior court here today with Judge George L. Jones presiding.

The selection of a jury was expected to take up most of the day's court proceedings. District Attorney Vernon Stoll is prosecuting the case and Harry McKee represents the defendant, who was arrested in Quincy and returned to Nevada City to stand trial.

Indian Braves To Register For Service

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 9—(UP)—Some 2,500 California Indian braves from the state's 76 Indian reservations are scheduled to sign up with Uncle Sam during the third selective service registration period February 14, 15 and 16.

Brig. Gen. J. O. Donovan, state selective service director, said approximately 1,260 of the estimated Indian registrants were in Northern California. Donovan said no special registration places would be set on reservations since the majority of Indians reside off the reservation.
